

I live in Indiana, where we have a VERY strong law restricting telemarketing. I understand that this federal law would take precedent, and that the Indiana law is far stronger. Let me tell you that my quality of life has improved dramatically since the Indiana law took effect, and it would be terrible if this federal law could supercede our great law. I used to receive almost one call per day (about 30 a month) and now I receive NONE!. I have never felt compelled to write a comment like this before, but I feel SO strongly about it that I want you to know. PLEASE make certain any federal law does not allow telemarketers with whom I have done business before be exempt (as I understand this law will do).
